Judging from the entries we're seeing from the 2013 Restaurant & Bar Design Awards, there's less and less reason to stay in for a bite or drink, thanks to the plethora of beautifully-designed food and beverage spaces out there these days.

Now in its fifth year, the independent annual awards program drew over 2,500 entries. Some 190 projects across 27 categories were shortlisted. The majority were from the United Kingdom, where the awards are focused, but with 19 notable designs from across Asia.

Apart from the Asian Bar and Restaurant categories, which saw entries from China, Hong Kong,

Singapore, Thailand, Japan and Korea, the region's designs also hogged the shortlist in the international Lighting category, which features Asylum's Kaiseki Yoshiyuki in Singapore, Into Lighting's Il Milione in Hong Kong, Neri & Hu's The Feast in Shanghai and Glamorous D in Tokyo.

Finalists of the Restaurant & Bar Design Awards 2013 will be announced in London in September, where past award winners will create four different themed pop-up spaces for the ceremony.
